

Has the recession put a dent in your educational funds??

Here's an opportunity to receive up to $12,000/ year in scholarship funds to become a certified science teacher!!

I-MAST SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

Impacting Metro Atlanta Science Teaching (I-MAST) is a collaborative effort involving the College of Education (COE) and the College of Arts and Sciences (A&S) at Georgia State University (Georgia State), Georgia Institute of Technology (Georgia Tech), and four high-need school districts in the Metro Atlanta area. I-MAST Robert Noyce Scholarships will be awarded to students interested in pursuing secondary science teacher certification program at Georgia State.

For more information please visit

<http://msit.gsu.edu/4841.html> or email imast@gsu.edu

National Science Foundation's Robert Noyce Impacting Metro Atlanta Science Teaching (I-MAST) Scholarship Program
NSF Award Number: 0934795

